State Senator Blaine Refuses To Appear Before The Investigating Committee.

SUMMON ALL CAMPAIGN MANAGERS

Stephenson Still Six Shy When It Comes To Joint Ballot--New Measures That Are Being Discussed This Year.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 25.—State Senator Blaine has refused to accept the subpoena to appear before the investigating committee and just what action will be taken is not yet known, but it is intimated that some radical action will be proposed by members of the committee.

Want All Managers
All managers of the Senatorial candidates have been asked to appear before the committee to tell how they spent the money entrusted to their charge by the candidates themselves. Meanwhile the examination of Edmund was continued.

Shy Again
The vote on Senator today was again short of election. Senator Stephenson received fifty-seven votes, six short of an election. Only one hundred and twenty-four members of the legislature were present.

Gave Statement
When the members of the senatorial investigation committee received their labor this morning their copies of the stenographic record of the committee's proceedings contained a new statement of the disposition of the money paid out in various amounts by R. H. Sackett for Stephenson's campaign.

The Details
These details, however, did not go any farther than to show to whom the various amounts were paid by Sackett, who testified yesterday that he knew nothing of the further disposition of the money.

Others as Well
Other candidates besides Stephenson also have been requested to file such accounts with the committee. This already has been done by Charles C. Luck of Madison for his part of the work in behalf of William H. Hutton.

Individual Accounts
This action on the part of the committee indicates a purpose to delve deeply into the individual accounts, to ascertain, if possible, the ultimate disposition of all amounts over $500 spent by or for the various candidates.

Blaine Again
Developments in the afternoon session yesterday afternoon included also the decision to subpoena Senator Blaine to appear on Friday morning at 9 o'clock, bringing his paper and memoranda in support of his charges against Stephenson. The last hour of the session was devoted to the examination of State Chairman E. A. Edmunds.

Edmunds's Story
Mr. Edmunds testified that Senator Stephenson called him on the telephone and requested him to meet J. H. Puelicher in Milwaukee and arrange to conduct his campaign. He

NEW HEAD OF THE CATHOLIC VARSITY

Formal Installation of Rev. Thomas J. Shanahan Took Place at Washington Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 25.—The formal installation of Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Shanahan as provisional rector of the Catholic University took place in McManis Hall today and was marked by interesting ceremonies. Cardinal Gibbons presided and among those in attendance were Mr. Clemens Falcione, the apostolic delegate, and other members of the delegation. The students body and the faculty of the university and the local clergy also were represented. The ceremonies were followed by a reception in honor of Bishop O'Connell, the retiring rector, and the incoming executive.

The new rector is one of the best known educators in the American Catholic church and has been the dominating force in the Catholic university faculty since its organization. He is considered one of the most erudite members of the American church and while his associates rejoice in his promotion there is regret to lose him from the ranks of teachers. Besides holding the chair of ancient church history and patristics, Dr. Shanahan has been a lecturer in Roman law in the law college and the editor of the Catholic University Bulletin.

Dr. Shanahan was born in Manchester, N. H., in 1857. He attended school in Milbury, Mass., during his early boyhood and began his theological studies in Laval college, Montreal. His brilliant record there caused him to be sent to the American college in Rome, where he took his degree of Doctor of Divinity in 1878. He pursued courses of history in the Sorbonne and Paris universities and also at the Hochschule in Berlin. He was ordained a priest in 1882. He was affiliated with the diocese of Hartford after his return from abroad and was its chancellor for several years.

Since 1890 Dr. Shanahan has been a member of the faculty of the Catholic University. He is interested in the revival of Gaelic and took an active part in creating the endowment for the chair of Gaelic in the Catholic University. He is an active member of the Knights of Columbus and aided the efforts of that organization to endow the chair of American history. Dr. Shanahan was one of the promoters of the Catholic Encyclopedia and is a member of the editorial board.

RAILWAY COMMISSION MADE NOVEL RULING

Says That Express Companies Can Not Charge Extra for Live Freight.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Mendota, Wis., Feb. 25.—If an express company accepts a live calf for shipment, it may lawfully collect no more than the regularly published rate, no matter if said calf proves refractory on any way, and its recapture involves an expense many times the amount of the rate for transportation.

This decision by the Wisconsin railroad rate commission was rendered in consequence of an interesting experience of former secretary of state, Walter L. Houser, proprietor of the Ethelwood stock farm near here. He shipped a fine bull calf and paid the rate of $12 as quoted by the agent of the express company at Mendota. This was the rate for a calf, uncrated, and although if the calf were crated a lower rate could be had, Mr. Houser chose to pay the higher rate and not go to the trouble of crating the calf. The boy who was with him and had to hold the calf was necessary to transfer the calf from one train to another, in which process the calf became frisky, as calves will do, dragged the agent a distance and finally got away. The agent hired men to capture the shipment, costing $5, and this sum was added against the consignee and collected from the consignee. He demanded and received the $5 back from Mr. Houser, who took the matter up with the state railroad rate commission, and got the $5 back for the commission decided that the express company might change the rate or change the rule and require calves to be crated when shipped alive, but so long as this rate remained unchanged, the company had to deliver the shipment at its destination.

FIND A STATE LAW THAT BARS A SUIT

Insurance Commissioners Prior to 1899 May Not Be Prosecuted in the Proposed Suits.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 25.—Much to the annoyance of the members of the legislature who sought to recover fees supposed to have been illegally retained by former insurance commissioners since 1878, it has been discovered that a law was passed in 1905 that barred collection on the part of the state prior to 1899.

The state treasurer sought to have the attorney general begin action against all seven insurance commissioners who have served the state for the collection of fees retained by them. While the attorney general declined to start the suits until a legislative investigation had been had, it has since been discovered that actions must be maintained only against Emil Clifton, Zeno M. Host, and George E. Beadle, who have served within the ten-year period.

The law which bars recovery prior to 1899 reads as follows: "Any other action in favor of the state, whether created by statute or otherwise, must be commenced within ten years after the cause of action thereafter has accrued."

Some members of the legislature are now making an investigation to ascertain how such a law came to be passed. So far all that has been discovered is that it is the first law passed at the 1905 session of the legislature, and was undoubtedly enacted to relieve the railroads who were then being sued for license fees on unreported gross earnings.

Senator E. T. Fairchild of Milwaukee and Assemblyman M. J. Cleary of Lafayette county have been named as the legislators to carry out the provisions of the governor's special message asking that M. W. Walte's charges against Insurance Commissioner Heedle and the insurance department be investigated by the legislature. They were appointed yesterday as a subcommittee by Chairman Owen and Kuhnsta of the senate and assembly committee on banking and insurance.

With the beginning of work on what Mr. Walte promised would be a startling expose of methods in vogue in the insurance department comes the information that the probe will not uncover any extremely startling conditions. It is said even now that enough of an inquiry has been made to discount in large measures the charges of the former deputy who made his accusations after losing his position in the capital.

The investigation by Messrs. Fairchild and Cleary is not expected to consume more than ten days or two weeks at the most. They will report to the two committees and then the legislature will make their report to the public with recommendations. It is said that the report will recommend that certain practices that have held in the past be discontinued but as far as shady acts and flagrant ignorance of the law are concerned it is understood the committee will show that these charges have been much exaggerated.

The subcommittee will direct its chief attention toward the charges that outside insurance companies have been licensed in Wisconsin without the examination prescribed by law. They will look particularly into the livestock insuring concern of Washington and ascertain whether it was or was not admitted when in what was said to be a bankrupt state.

The two members of the committee held a brief meeting last night at which they framed plans for their inquiry and before the week's end they will begin their work in the insurance department. Commissioner Heedle has placed all records at their disposal and is seeking to facilitate the work as much as possible.

After a herd has once been tested the frequency that it shall have to be tested thereafter shall depend upon the judgment of the livestock sanitary board. For violation of the proposed law the bill fixes a penalty of not less than $10 or more than $50 or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than sixty days for each offense. The data gathered by Dr. M. P. Hovens, showing that the tuberculin germ can be communicated by milk from the cow to the human being will be presented to the committee of the legislature in favor of the passage of the act.

A number of bills are pending before the legislature to allow students who have passed an examination given by the livestock sanitary board make tests of cattle for tuberculosis. At the present time these tests must be made by veterinarians.

STATE LAW THAT IS OF INTEREST HERE

Proposed Measure to Compel Testing of Dairy Herds Is of Local Interest.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 25.—Assemblyman Otto Onstad has found in the report made by the state veterinarian of the live stock sanitary board reasons today to support the law introduced by him, to require that all cows, the milk from which is sold, shall be tested. This report shows that from Dec. 16 to Feb. 24, 12,267 cows were tested for tuberculosis in the state of Wisconsin and 1,107 were found to be diseased.

These tests have been carried on in practically every county of the state. In Dane county 2,735 cows were tested and a reaction indicating tuberculosis was shown by 227; of the 74 tested in Racine county a reaction was shown in 28 cases; of 502 tested in La Crosse county 28 were diseased; 39 tested in Eau Claire county with five diseased; of 161 tested in Douglas county four were diseased; of 2,113 tested in Waukesha county 139 were found to be infected. The report shows the number tested in every county of the state.

To compel the testing of all cattle Assemblyman Onstad has introduced a bill providing that "it shall be unlawful for any person in the state of Wisconsin to sell milk or products of the same for food purposes unless from cows that have within one year been tuberculin tested by some party legally authorized to apply such test and unless such cow or cows have been found free from the disease."

After a herd has once been tested the frequency that it shall have to be tested thereafter shall depend upon the judgment of the livestock sanitary board. For violation of the proposed law the bill fixes a penalty of not less than $10 or more than $50 or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than sixty days for each offense. Home Course In Modern Agriculture

X.—Some Insect Pests

By C. V. GREGORY.

Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

AMONG the enemies which the farmer has to combat perhaps none are more troublesome than insects. Nothing is more aggravating than to have a promising crop of fruit or grain attacked by a horde of "bugs" and greatly injured if not entirely ruined.

Insects, like weeds, are very difficult to deal with if you go at them one at a time, but if properly managed they can be easily held in check. From the standpoint of the damage they do, insects may be divided into two classes—those which attack field crops and those which are injurious to fruit and garden crops.

There are a number of insects which attack corn. While these are seldom present in large enough numbers to destroy any considerable part of the entire crop, the money value of the damage they inflict on the corn grown on a quarter section each year amounts to no small sum.

One of the most important of these pests is the corn root worm. The eggs, which are laid in the cornfield during August or September, hatch during the next June or July. The worms when full grown are about one-third of an inch long and as big around as a pin. They bore up inside the roots, injuring them so badly that the growth of the plant is seriously checked. Often, too, the roots are so weakened that the corn blows down badly. Some time during August the worm goes through a transformation called pupation, which changes it into a small light green beetle. This beetle feeds on the silks and tips of ears and lays eggs for the next year's crop of worms.

Another insect which lives on the roots of corn is the root louse. These lice are very small and helpless. They are kept through the winter in the egg stage in ant hills. In the spring after they hatch they are placed on the corn roots by the ants. The ants are very fond of a sweet fluid which is secreted by the lice, and they take care of them for this purpose.

Other insects which do much or less damage to the corn crop are the stalk borer, wireworm, white grub, bill bug, cutworm, etc. These insects live and multiply in grass land and from there find their way into the adjoining cornfields. They do the greatest damage, however, when the grass land is plowed up and put into corn.

The damage from nearly all insects affecting corn, small grain or grass can be readily prevented by a good system of rotation. This is especially true if clover is used, since such insects as cutworms and grubs do not work to any extent on clover. The frequent plowing of the ground and change of crops where a rotation is followed are fatal to most insects. Damage from these pests will be still further reduced if the soil is kept as well supplied with plant food that the plants can get a quick start in the spring. Treated in this way, they are more vigorous and better able to withstand insect attacks.

These remedies, with the exception of the last, cannot be applied to orchard and garden crops, since these must be grown on the same land year after year. For the insects affecting these crops spraying is the best remedy.

The principal insect that attacks the apple is the codling moth. These insects pass the winter in a ball of silk, or cocoon, which they spin around themselves. These cocoons are hidden beneath the bark and under rubbish. Such as happen to escape the hungry search of woodpeckers and other birds change to the pupa stage in the spring. In this stage changes take place inside the body of the worm which so transform it that early in June it comes out of the cocoon as a small brown moth.

These moths lay great numbers of eggs, which hatch into small worms. These worms cut their way into the apple through the blossom end. The apples thus affected usually fall off, and in a short time the worms crawl out and again spin cocoons around themselves. The life cycle is lived over again, and a second brood of the moths appears about the middle of July. It is this brood which does the most damage. It is the worms which hatch from the eggs laid by them that are so often found in full and winter apples.

Many poisons, of which paris green is the one most commonly used, are effective in destroying the codling moth. Paris green is usually used in connection with Bordeaux mixture, which is a remedy for the various fungous diseases which affect the leaves and fruit.

To make this mixture dissolve five pounds of copper sulphate and five pounds of lime separately in twenty-five gallons of water each. When they are thoroughly dissolved mix the two solutions and add four ounces of paris green. The lime in this solution is added to prevent the chemicals from injuring the leaves and to make the mixture stick better.

Three sprayings are sufficient for the codling moth. The first should be given immediately after the blossoms fall, the second from ten to twenty days later and the third about the last of July.

One of the chief insect enemies of the plum and one which also attacks many of the other fruits is the cur-culio beetle. The curculio beetle lays its eggs in the young fruit shortly after it sets. In doing so it leaves a half moon shaped scar, which is its trademark. One of the surest ways of getting rid of this insect is to jar the beetles from the tree at this time.

Spraying is also an effective remedy. The Bordeaux-paris green mixture may be used, but arsenate of lead is better, since it is less liable to injure the leaves. It is applied at the rate of three pounds to fifty gallons of water. The spray should be applied just before the blossoms open, just after they fall and again about fifteen days later. Poisonous sprays should never be applied to fruit trees while they are in blossom. It is not necessary in order to destroy the insects and will kill many of the honeybees, upon which the blossoms are so dependent for pollination.

The insects that have been mentioned so far live by eating the leaves and fruit and in doing so take up enough of the poison to put an end to their destructive work. There is another class of insects, however, for which such remedies are not effective. These are the sucking insects, of which plant lice are the most common examples. Insects of this kind feed by drilling through the outer layer of the leaf or bark and sucking the plant juices. They thus escape damage from any poison which may be on the surface.

To get rid of sucking insects some substance which will kill by coming in contact with them must be used. There is nothing better for this purpose than kerosene emulsion. This is made by dissolving half a pound of soap in a gallon of boiling rainwater. This mixture is then taken from the stove and two gallons of kerosene added. The compound should be churned violently for a few moments by pumping it up with the spray pump and back into the pail. This causes the oil to mix thoroughly with the water. Before using, this original mixture is diluted with six to ten parts of water.

A common insect affecting garden crops and one that is hard to handle is the striped cucumber beetle. This is a serious enemy of cucumbers, squashes, melons and other plants of like nature. Spraying does little good and is liable to injure the tender plants as well. Where but a few hills are raised, covering them for the first two weeks with a small box with mosquito bar stretched across the top is a good preventive measure. Another effective plan is to go over the patch in the morning while the dew is on and the beetles cannot fly, knock them to the ground by giving the plant a slight blow and put a drop of kerosene on each one.

Where any of these crops are raised on a large scale, the most effective remedy is the use of "trap plants." Plant the field to squashes a week or ten days before time to plant the main crop. The beetles are especially fond of squash plants and will gather on them in large numbers as soon as they come up. Just about the time the other plants begin to peep through the ground the squashes can be sprayed with very strong kerosene emulsion. This will destroy both the squash plants and the beetles. There will usually not be enough of the latter left in the neighborhood to do much damage.

LIKE UNTO OTHER CAUCUSES.

Fashion Set by Hannibal Hamlin Not Infrequently Followed.

The old saw says that "politics makes strange bedfellows," and it is likewise a fact that the professional politician is frequently moved by the "exigencies of the case," to acts that will not stand close scrutiny. Not alone is this so in the present day, but it was so "in the days of the fathers." When Hannibal Hamlin first began his political career he was once at a caucus in Hampton, the only attendant besides himself being a citizen of very tall stature and ponderous build. Mr. Hamlin had some resolutions to pass which began by repudiating that they were presented to a "large and respectable" gathering of voters, and he proceeded to read and "vote" them onto the records of the caucus.

"Hold on!" cried the other man. "We can't pass that, for it ain't true."

"What isn't true?" demanded the wily Hamlin.

"It ain't a large and respectable caucus," objected the other member of the assembly. "There's only two of us."

"That's all right, brother, that's all right," assured Hamlin. "It goes as read. Just you keep still. This is a large and respectable caucus, all right. You're large and I am respectable."

And the resolution "passed" without further demur.

Every lady in this vicinity will be immediately interested in this announcement for the reason that here will be displayed the first showing of authoritative styles in Women's Tailored Suits for spring and summer wear.

In addition to our unequalled showing we have arranged to have a representative of the house of BIEFIELD present with their line of splendid garments from which buyers will have the privilege of selecting just the same as from our own stock on the day mentioned above. No such opportunity will again be presented to intending buyers this spring, and a many of our regular customers are acquainted with the excellence of the work turned out by BIEFIELD a simple announcement that an opportunity is now offered to make selections from their line is sufficient to fill our store, with critical buyers who are satisfied with only the best.

This will be a showing of over 200 garments—a showing so large and varied, so comprehensive in its grasp of the details of fashions for 1909 that it will be worth a visit from all, those who intend to buy and those who do not, for all will want to know the latest and noblest things out in Women's Suits.

Those who attend this opening sale of Suits will find displayed the season's latest creations in women's wear, all the handsome and natty ideas in make-up, fabric and finish that go to make a strictly fashionable and desirable garment. Our purchases have been unus-usually large and every single garment was selected with an idea of offering patrons of this store the very best that good garment makers can produce. FINANCING THE WEST

Under this caption the New York Wall Street Journal proceeds to demonstrate that the report that the west does not need eastern capital for development is a fallacy. It takes the subject up in detail and proves its own conclusions to its own satisfaction.

"When some western merchant or financier announces about this time of the year that, 'the west is now in a position to finance itself without eastern assistance,' nothing is really indicated more serious than a lapse of memory. This is in fact the season for such utterances, and defective memory is certainly not confined to the west. Two of the most prominent of the New York papers at least give constant prominence to these optimistic and untruthful statements."

The reasonable announcement in the New York Herald on Saturday was only among the earliest of a succession which may be expected up to midsummer.

"At this time of the year the West very generally has more money than it knows what to do with, even in boom of comparative depression. Such surplus money is sent to New York after the local borrowers have been gladly accommodated. The money is not needed in agriculture and naturally moves towards the point where some interest return is obtainable, subject to quick withdrawal in case of necessity."

"The West, however, is not doing its own financing. It is not likely to do it, and there is not the slightest reason why it should. New York exists for that purpose, just as London exists for the financing of the British Empire. The Australian does not feel any reflection on his credit when he floats his colonial loans in London. He knows better, and indeed if he lending money to stimulate development at other points, it would be largely an admission that his growth had been arrested."

"The West is not finding $82,000,000 for the new issue of Southern Pacific convertibles, but the capital will be spent there, and the West has by far the best and of the bargain. What the shrewd economists who talk about the independence of the West throughout the first half of the year mean, however, is that there will not be the usual outward movement of money to handle the crops. They are equally wide of the mark in that respect also, but for another reason."

"This is the money which the western farmer uses in his business. It is his floating capital. He sends it here when he cannot use it at home, and calls it home again when he needs it to handle the harvest. This makes the annual movement of money from New York to the West and South, and so long as New York is the financial center of America, that movement must be as regular as sunrise. It implies no reflection on the West's ability to finance itself, but simply means that money is liquid and like any other fluid finds its natural level by flowing to the place where it is most needed."

"The West is doing wonderfully well at a time of depression elsewhere, and has no need to claim impossibility, attributing which, even if it had them, would not be worth having."

A DEAR TEACHER.

Lessons are taught by experience which sometimes is a dear teacher. New states are created, carved out of virgin territory, and given a constitution. These state constitutions of the present generation are marvels of ingenuity and contrivance. Each is thought more perfect than the last. It seems likely though just at present that Oklahoma will be able to furnish older states with some valuable object lessons. Its constitution was drafted with a great flourish of trumpets. It had every possible improvement that any crank could devise. It was made on the plan of the Dingley tariff, where one man got what he wanted in return for conceding as much to everybody else. And its crowning glory was the guarantee of bank deposits.

The world did not stop rotating to admire the Oklahoma constitution rather than the astonishment of its framers, but it is at least satisfactory that vicious experiments in government are being tried out where they will do relatively little harm. The rest of the United States will continue to attend to business if all the banks of Oklahoma shut their doors, and nobody outside that state would be much hurt; while the lesson in same banking would be invaluable.

It is now admitted by enthusiasts on the guarantee of bank deposits that the plan is proving dangerous already. As might have been expected, banks have been started in Oklahoma, whether they were needed or not, by people with absolutely no banking experience. Any capital seems to be considered sufficient, and it is now proposed to limit upon a capital stock of at least $15,000, among other amendments to a proposed law.

As might have been expected, impossible rates of interest have been bid to secure deposits, and it is now proposed to forbid banks in the state from advertising that those deposits are "guaranteed by the state of Oklahoma."

It seems difficult to see why the banks there should not so advertise. If their deposits are not guaranteed by the state, what is the guarantee worth? The guarantee fund is deposited with the guaranteed banks, and so suspicious are the state banks themselves of the solvency of each other that it has now become necessary to forbid them from keeping more than 10% of the reserve fund with such national banks as are still trying to do business in Oklahoma.

What is happening is exactly what was predicted at the time the scheme originated—a prediction repeated over and over again when the plan was made the principal issue of the democratic campaign. A premium is placed upon reckless and dishonest banking, and banks which are properly conducted will have to pay the losses incurred by their fraudulent or ignorant competitors. The crisis has not come yet in Oklahoma, but that it cannot be far away is shown by the urgent efforts to amend the law providing for the guarantee of bank deposits. It is even beginning to dawn upon the statesmen of Oklahoma that there is a distinction between two commercial banks and savings banks. This is a hopeful sign, at least, but comes late in the day.

That the party now in power in Oklahoma is committed to the guarantee plan is obvious, and moreover it is prepared to go to any length to vindicate its policy. Its last and most reckless proceeding is the introduction of a bill to allow public funds to be deposited in the guaranteed banks without security to the state. It is an ingenious idea and ensures that when the inevitable smash comes the state will be involved as well as every guaranteed bank.

The question of an open or closed town on Sunday is a problem that is hard to solve. Deloit has started a no-license crusade and makes the statement that it is the Sunday saloon trade that has caused the move to originate. Janesville has an ordinance which forbids the sale of liquor on Sunday and it should be enforced by the saloon men themselves unless they want to see the liquor question brought for an issue at election at this or in future years. If the county option law ever passes the legislature it will mean Rock county will go dry and the liquor men will have only themselves to blame. They should observe the law as they find it at present and not be so ready to break civil regulations for the sake of a few extra dollars.

The question at this spring election of electing a Mayor, city clerk and aldermen to represent the voters of the city in handling the business of the municipality during the coming year, is a trying one to solve. Men for public office should not be tied down by personal business that would not permit them of giving the best of their energies to the duty of the office they seek. Individual interests and the city's often come into conflict and the individual must lose sight of himself in dealing with public matters. Good men should be named, men who are capable of handling the intricate business details of governing a city the size of Janesville.

The coming council should make a careful survey of every saloon license this is granted during the coming year. It is the fault of the bad saloon that all have a bad reputation but Janesville should bar all licenses to liquor dealers who permit women to sit in their back rooms and drink with strangers and where tough characters are allowed to hang out and plot their future crimes. Janesville has several of these and they should be refused a license when they seek a new one.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

Copyright, 1908, by Edwin A. Nye.

TO THE LADY OF THE HOUSE.

You do not envy very much the wives of the very rich, do you? Or do you?

Well, permit me to suggest that these women, as a rule, are the most dissatisfied, the most restless, the most unhappy, of any women in the world.

They happy?

How can they be when they depend upon the SUELLS rather than the KERNELS of life? Great houses, sumptuous furnishings, costly gowns, jewels, automobiles—these are shells, mere imitations of a happy state.

You, madam, live in a cozy cottage. You do your housework, aided, it may be, by one domestic or none. You do the thousand and one chores of a busy wife and mother. You are not idle; neither are you a mere drudge.

Consider the ways and means you have for happiness the rich woman does not have.

For instance, when the rich woman gets a new gown it brings her no special thrill of pleasure. All her life she has had expensive garments. She feels no more joy than does a well-dressed wooden doll.

But YOU, madam—your new gown or cloak that you bought out of your savings or from the slender purse of a good husband—what a triumph of management! Yours is the pleasure of difficult accomplishment. The garment stands for something EARNED. The JOY OF EARNING comes not to the rich.

And so of the overcoat for husband or the new suit for the boy, the hat for the girl. To the rich, yes; to you, epochs of the family life—occasions of satisfaction, treasures to be thankful for.

You, madam—

There is a profession that becomes commonplace, and there is a security that makes for variety and contentment.

Now, starting with this matter of clothes, you can figure out a thousand sources of happiness the rich man's wife cannot know.

Home to her is not much more than a hotel, a place of transient lodging, a point of departure. Her husband is merely the man who signs big checks for the bills. Her children, if there be any, are creatures to be turned over to the tender mercies of nurse and tutor.

Idle, but worn with dissipation; free, but satiated with needless luxury—why, these women are rather to be pitied than envied!

Once in awhile a rich woman discards the shell and finds the kernel—employment worthy of an immortal soul—and in these labors finds her happiness. But—

There are few such.

Very squeaky boots may be silenced by just allowing the soles to stand in either olive or castor oil for about twelve hours; then take out and let them dry well.

POND & BAILEY'S

Undermuslins At a Saving

If this notice had no word about special economy, it would still be good news to women who love dainty muslin underwear, for it tells of the prettiest petticoats, corset covers, night gowns, chemise and drawers, that have been designed this year.

But it has a strong price magnet, too, that forbids wise women to make their own undermuslins, for the materials and trimmings alone would cost more than these garments, and we are as careful about the cut and sewing as you could wish. All made under the most sanitary conditions and after the latest fashion.

Dainty Corset Covers

Lace or embroidery trimmed, 25c and 50c.

Underskirts

Homstitched and tucks or with embroidery, at 50 cents and up.

Night Gowns

Square or "V" neck, 75 cents and up.

Combination chemise and drawers, $1.00 and up.

Save this for reference.

Decorative should have jardiniere. Plants both for decorative and utilitarian purposes. They serve to hold the excess water. A little sand placed in the bottom of the jardiniere will keep the roots moist and cool. With almost all decorative plants, the soil should be watered once daily and the foliage twice a week. About once in 2 weeks Palms, Rubber Plants and all other decorative plants with thick foliage should be washed with a sponge on both sides of the leaves in clear water. Every month a washing with white oil soap will be found beneficial. Palms, Ferns, and almost all decorative plants require protection from the extreme hot rays of the sun, although the Rubber Plant, when plunged in the open ground in the pot or tub in which it has been growing, will thrive most luxuriantly in the sunshine. Give plenty of water.

The love of flowers and plants is a universal human family, and evidences a need that should be supplied just as surely as the demand for learning is gratified. Children, particularly, should be brought in contact with them and encouraged to care for them, and no home or school-room is complete without some growing plant. It is a well understood fact that the existence of plants is conducive to the health of children as well as adults. They supply oxygen for the room.

THE CARE OF CUT FLOWERS

PALMS AND FERNS

Dwight Greenhouses

Everybody loves flowers, but a great many people refrain from purchasing plants and cut flowers simply on account of the lack of knowledge of how to take care of them. The following information is accurate, and to the point.

Ferns

No dining room or parlor is complete for decoration without ferns, as they add so much to the appearance of the room. The water should never be allowed to stand in the outer jardiniere. Keep in the light, but out of the sunshine. Water the soil daily, allowing to each pan about half a pint of water. Sprinkle the foliage morning and evening. When ferns are kept in a place where temperature is not above 50 degrees, the soil will require watering but once in two days. Asparagus Plumosa is the hardest and most used variety but there are other beautiful kinds for filling fern pans.

For preservation of Cut Flowers and the care of Decorative Plants, a rubber hand sprayer is almost indispensable. They make watering and spraying an easy task and accomplish it effectively. Such a sprayer can be purchased for $1.

THE CARE OF CUT FLOWERS

PALMS AND FERNS

Dwight Greenhouses

Everybody loves flowers, but a great many people refrain from purchasing plants and cut flowers simply on account of the lack of knowledge of how to take care of them. The following information is accurate, and to the point.

Flowers

There are few people who get the full value or enjoyment possible out of cut flowers, ferns, palms and other decorative plants, simply through lack of knowledge of how to care for them. This fact is all the more surprising when it is realized that their care requires no scientific knowledge and demands so little attention.

The height of a flower stand should be from 10 to 20 inches. At large banquets a greater height is permissible. The best form is to limit the flowers to one variety, although two may be permitted. Each bouquet may consist of from 6 to 24 flowers. Roses or Carnations are always satisfactory, but at certain seasons Tulips, Pinks, Gladioli, Asters, Dahlias, or Wisteria flowers may be used. When Sweet Peas, Lily of Valley, or Violets fill the requirements, in any floral decoration, over-avoiding and stiffness should be avoided. Try to secure a carelessly graceful arrangement, permitting every flower to preserve its own individuality.

Asparagus, Maiden Hair or Dagger Ferns should be strewn on the tables, while here and there should be scattered a few Roses, Carnations or seasonal flowers. For a flower vase should be of flower not too narrow a base, of a design to hold the most water possible, consistent with style that is artistic and beautiful. A very satisfactory vase of pressed glass, 12 inches high, 4 inches in diameter at the base, 6 inches at the top, may be purchased for 50 cents. It will hold from 12 to 24 flowers.

Golden Globes, 4 or 6 inch sizes, make excellent vases for short-stemmed flowers, showing stems, foliage and flowers of Sweet Peas, Violets, Orchids, Lily of Valley, and Pinks.

Not Cocaine

Never before in the history of medicine has it been possible to extract teeth so painlessly as I am doing right now in Janesville.

Not that I take any credit as to discovery but simply that I have at last secured

The method which gets results.

I hear this same story frequently from children, faint-hearted or strong-minded men and women.

"Dr., you never hurt me a bit."

Nobody in Janesville knows what this agent is and I don't propose to tell them, only to emphatically say that it is "Not Cocaine or any derivative of Cocaine."

Let me demonstrate.

STATE GATHERING IS INVITED HERE

W. C. T. U. TAKE ACTION AT MEETING HELD YESTERDAY.

LOYAL TEMPERANCE LEGION

Will Be Here in July—Three Hundred Delegates Are Expected to Be Present.

At the meeting of the W. C. T. U. held yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Kimball, 217 Locust street, it was decided to issue a formal invitation to the State Loyal Temperance Legion to hold their state convention in Janesville some time in July.

The session yesterday was most interesting and much enthusiasm was shown in the work and the proposed state gathering of the workers. According to Mrs. James Charles of Albany there will be some three hundred delegates present at the session which will include legions from all parts of the state.

Howard J. W. Laughlin was present yesterday and gave a interesting talk on the proposed work of the organization and the coming convention. Some thirty ladies were present.

GROCERY STORES WERE VISITED BY BOLD BURGLARS

Secured Small Sum of Cash at W. W. Nash's Establishment—Frightened

Away from Roasting Bro's Place.

About half past eleven o'clock last evening Officer John Brown was apprised over the telephone of the fact that a pair of bold burglars had been discovered cutting the putty away from the glass in the front door of Roasting Bro's grocery at 923 Western avenue. His informant, who happened to be J. J. Roasting, said that he had been sleeping in the store and when the noise awakened him from his slumbers had secured a revolver and moved towards the portal. The burglars were so engrossed in their operations that they did not note his approach until he drew a bead on them and commanded them, through the glass, to "get out of there." They promptly obeyed the command. After the birds had flown he called upon the police department. While the officers were somewhat impatient with Mr. Roasting for not taking a pot-shot at the marauders' feet or at least informing the authorities before the birds had flown, they made a careful search of the premises. No suspicious characters, however, were to be found in that vicinity.

Nash Store Entered

Sometime before daybreak entrance to W. W. Nash's store on West Milwaukee street was effected by breaking a basement window opening into the area on the Corn Exchange square. The burglar pulled the elevator halfway down and climbed up the shaft to the first floor. The cash register was not locked and yielded about three dollars. From a drawer in the bookkeeper's desk a dollar's worth of stamps were abstracted. The thief then inspected several boxes of cigars but contented himself with the ten or a dozen smokes remaining in the receptacle for a well known local brand. He made his exit through the back door and did not go to any extra pains to close it lightly after him. Fred Bearcroft came upon the exit of the burglar when he opened the establishment at six o'clock this morning. As the burglar's footprints were in the basement only registered 38 above, he concluded that the window had not been open long and that the job had been done shortly before his arrival.

MAY SECURE A GAME WITH WAUSAU TEAM

Physical Director Birch Will Try to Get Wausau Players to Come Here for Contest.

An effort will be made by Physical Director Birch of the Y. M. C. A. to secure a game here between the local basketball team and the Wausau association five. Wausau now holds the championship from having won from Green Bay in a game played at the state convention of the associations, but has not played with the Janesville team. From the scores by which the Wausau players have defeated the Janesville team, it is evident that they can defeat the Wausau men or give them a very close score. It is evident that if Janesville is beaten at the next game of the series, the chances of the local boys are very good, as Janesville has lost but the one game and Evansville was unable to secure a victory from Waterloo. The Waterloo team was one that Janesville was victorious over.

MISS JOAN SHEARER DIED AT MIDNIGHT

Was One of the Best-Loved of Janesville's Young Women and Tidings Come as Shock to Entire Community.

To the younger people of Janesville who knew and admired the gentleness of spirit, the never failing optimism, and the unswerving loyalty to friends which helped make up the sunshine of her life, and to their elders who rejoiced in her pleasant ways, her thoughtfulness and sympathy, the tidings of the sudden death of Miss Joan Alexander Shearer brought deep and poignant sorrow this morning. She had been ill since the first of the year but until very recently her family and friends had confidently looked forward to her ultimate recovery, and no later as yesterday friends were led to believe that her condition was gradually improving. Those at the bedside, however, had known since the first of the week that she was in a critical state and the conclusion reached later by the physicians that she was suffering with that terrible malady, tuberculosis of the bowels, left little ground for hope. She had been rapidly sinking for some hours, when, at midnight, death quietly ended her suffering. Her life here had been a long one, and she had been well and there is in this reflection what little comfort may be found in the acceptance of the inevitable.

The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Shearer, and to the sorrowing sisters and brother. One of the sisters, Mrs. George S. Stewart, arrived from Franklin, Pa., last evening, and another, Mrs. George H. Brownell, came from Detroit this morning. The other sisters, Mrs. D. S. Thomas and Miss Louise Shearer, and the brother, John Shearer, were at the home, 1118 Mineral Point avenue, when the end came.

Miss Shearer was graduated from the Janesville high school with the class of 1899 and studied for a year at the Art Institute in Chicago. She was not only one of the fairest and most popular of the young ladies who move in local society circles, but also took a prominent part in the work of the Presbyterian church, of which congregation she was a member. In every scene of her wanted presence and activity she will be sadly missed.

The funeral will be held from the home at half past two o'clock Saturday afternoon, the Rev. J. W. Laughlin officiating.

John Shearer.

The remains of the late John Shearer, who died in Mineral Point, arrived here this morning and were taken to Tomah, Wis., his old home, for burial. His mother, Mrs. John Shearer, accompanied by Mrs. Mark Dunlap, Mrs. William Morris, and Miss Lena Pettit of Holmdel, went along with the body. The funeral was held this afternoon and the body laid to rest in the Tomah cemetery.

Lost Little Daughter

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Croft died at their home on Washington avenue at three o'clock yesterday afternoon. The infant took place at Mt. Olivet cemetery this morning.

TO THE VOTERS OF JANESVILLE

I hereby announce my candidacy for the office of Mayor of this city on the Republican ticket at the primary election to be held March 23, 1930. There have been some rumors on the street that I am the candidate of the Electric Light Co. of this city. I frankly admit I have a brother that has an interest in that corporation. But if I had followed that brother's advice, I would not at this time, be an alderman of this city, and most emphatically would not now be a candidate for the office of Mayor. He claims that the candidate that wins at an election is the one that loses in the end. For myself I simply wish to say that I am not a candidate in the interest of any single individual, faction, clique or corporation. That I am not under any artificial thrills or promise of any kind, either expressed or implied. Should fortune favor me and I receive the election, I feel that I must be the Mayor in the interests of the city at large, with no string attached. By this I do not mean I would not need counsel and advice—would be thankful for it, reserving to myself the right to digest the same, as best I can, and find out what part is for selfish interest and that really meant for the public good, then act accordingly.

W. F. CARLE.

FALL IN STOCKS ON TRADE BOARD TODAY

Weakness of yesterday in New York Market continued—Copper and Steel Stocks Dropped.
(By Associated Press.)
New York, Feb. 25.—Renewed weakness developed in the stock market today. Copper stocks, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Reading, steel and others fell from two to four points below yesterday's close.

ARE SEARCHING FOR A FORMER RESIDENT

Relatives of Woman Who Formerly Lived in Manitowish Are Striving to Locate Her.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Manitowish, Feb. 25.—Inquiries and request for aid in search for Mary Walker, a resident here in the 60's who later married a man named Lucas who enlisted in the civil war and may have been killed at Uniontown in 1864, have been received and efforts are being made to locate the woman or her relatives. The inquiry comes from an adopted son who says there are three other children.

Officers Capital
Rev. J. C. K. Proulx, this city, was elected president of the district or organization of Young People's societies of the Norwegian Lutheran church at the first annual meeting held here. Louis Anderson, Shobaygan, is secretary and a constitution adopted provides for semi-annual meetings. The district comprises churches of the east section of the state. Rev. Holden Olson, Madison, national president, attended the local meeting.

Must Stand Trial
That a complaint charging embezzlement and specifying dates and amounts is sufficient bill of particulars in an embezzlement case is the ruling of Judge Lewis, presiding in circuit court in the Hoyt case, the court denying the defense's demand for a more specific bill of particulars. The court also overruled a plea in abatement entered by Hoyt to one count of the complaint but sustained the plea in a count charging embezzlement at an earlier date than in the principal charge. Hoyt must answer charges of embezzlement and Jaremy as before. The defendant is a civil war veteran, aged 60, and was formerly wealthy. He was brought back here from the south after a chase of nearly a year by local officers.

The Parson and the Dentist.
A clergyman went to have his teeth fixed by a dentist. When the work was done the dentist declined to accept more than a nominal fee. The parson, in return for his favor, insisted later on the dentist accepting a volume of the reverend gentleman's own writing. It was a disquisition on the Psalm, and on the flyleaf he had inscribed this appropriate quotation: "And my mouth shall show forth thy praise!"—Harper's Weekly.

THE MATTER OF VEILS.

Detail of the Costume That is of immense importance.

Nothing can more easily make or mar one's appearance than a veil. If it is put on in wrinkles, it conveys immediately the impression of a wrinkled skin, and adds years to the fair face. If a woman has a naturally heavy jaw, she must resist the temptation of the border veils, and the man—it could never have been a woman—who invented green veils ought to be imprisoned. Brown veils are universally becoming, and the veritable avalanches of lace that now fall from the fashionable hats can be manipulated by clever fingers into any effect whatsoever! The safest of all is the clear mesh with moderately large chenille spots. To fix it to the hat, always pin it in front first to the brim, then pin the two top edges together at the back of the crown. The ends are then gathered into a knot, so that the lace lies quite smoothly across the face. The greatest care should be taken with the back of the veil, which must meet as nearly as possible over the back of the hair, and do not let the lower edges fall below the chin. Twisting it into a knot under the chin is abominable. When the veil is removed from the hat it should be rolled over a cardboard roll made for the purpose. An invaluable law should be that the veil must match either the hat or the trimming. The old rose and the deep red shades in veiling give an attractive glow to pale cheeks.

Gold and Brown.

One of the combinations coming in to first style for indoor gowns is bronze satin. It is used for an empire skirt that reaches to the bust, and above this is a bodice of bronze sequins mixed with gold thread, run on brown net.

The bodice is made in the usual way out of bands going around the figure and over the arms. The only touch of any other color is a bit of white tulle at the neck and sleeves.

This combination is adopted for elaborate low-necked frocks worn for special occasions. As a rule brown is not considered among the evening colors, but this coppery bronze tone shows off the heavy tulle trimming in an effective manner, and lights up well under the electric.

Timely Word to the Wealthy.

The wealthy and the noble, when they expend large sums in decorating their houses with the rare and costly efforts of genius, with busts from the chisel of a Canova, and with cartoons from the pencil of a Raphael, are to be commended. If they do not stand still there, but go on to beautify some plain and cool, that the master himself be not inferior to the mansion, and that the owner be not the only thing that is little, amidst everything else that is great.—Colton.

ADMIRAL SPERRY IN THE CAPITAL

May Be Relieved of the Fleet's Command.

FRIENDS DECLARE HE'LL STAY

Reported That Roosevelt May Name Commander-in-Chief Before He Quits Presidency March 4—Ships in a Storm.

Fort Monroe, Va., Feb. 25.—Admiral Sperry has gone to Washington and no action will be taken as to the disposal of the fleet until he returns. He will consult with the president and secretary of the navy concerning the plans.

The commanding and other officers were much gratified by the published reports from Washington that Admiral Sperry would continue as commander-in-chief of the battleship fleet until the date of his retirement in September.

Some others, however, were inclined to believe the report that has spread throughout the fleet to the effect that President Roosevelt intended himself to name the next commander-in-chief before he retires from office. An official announcement is expected while Admiral Sperry is in Washington.

Another Storm Sweeps Fleet.
After being storm in brilliant sunlight throughout the morning the fleet in Hampton Roads was swept by another severe storm yesterday afternoon.

The stiff southerly gale which set in Tuesday continued throughout the morning, but the skies were clear, and the view of the two long lines of anchored fighting craft was magnificent. After noon, however, the wind shifted to the southwest, and a drizzling downpour of rain began. The big battleships and cruisers did not suffer from the blow, but the steam launches running to the shore made decidedly heavy weather of it.

Two launches on ships' launches were tossed overboard during the launch, but both were rescued. A launch belonging to the battleship Rhode Island was partly wrecked in trying to come alongside the ship's gangway. A launchmen of ladies was aboard, and when the wave-tossed boat crashed into a side boom of the armor-plated vessel, the launch was overturned. The launch drifted rapidly away from the ship, the engine having caught a "dead center" in reversing.

Another little steamer was sent to pick her up, but the helpless launch had drifted more than half a mile in the choppy sea before being secured.

Other accidents narrowly averted. Only the expert seamanship of the navy coxswains and deckhands in charge of the launches prevented more serious mishaps.

The water was the roughest known in recent years in Hampton Roads. Many ton and dinner parties planned on board the various ships had to be postponed, while scores of visitors who went early to the anchored vessels had to remain on board until late before they could be sent ashore.

Shore boats did not attempt to make the battleship lines during the storm. The invitation of the Norfolk entertainment committee to officers and men of the fleet to visit that city on Saturday was formally accepted by Admiral Sperry.

submit by the offer of the treasury portfolio and its acceptance. That the offer was made to and accepted by Franklin MacVeagh of Chicago is as near a positive statement of what is believed to be the fact as may be made in the face of an absolute refusal by Mr. Taft to throw any light on the most interesting situation.

In spite of strong belief that Mr. MacVeagh had been offered the treasury portfolio and had already, or would accept, there were reports that the name of A. B. Hepburn, former comptroller of the currency, of New York, had figured largely in the conference on the subject.

Joseph H. Choate and Attorney Lacking of Detroit conferred with Mr. Taft upon his return to his brother's home regarding certain phases of pending pure food legislation.

OHIO RIVER IS ON ITS RAMPAGE River Reaches Flood Stage Causing Much Loss.

WATER UP TO OLD TRICKS
Cincinnati's Lowlands Submerged, and Grand Central Railway Station in Danger of Inundation—Much Coal May Be Lost.

Cincinnati, Feb. 25.—The Ohio river is on its regular yearly rampage. Following rains which have almost equaled cloudbursts, the river has passed the flood stage of 50 feet here, while nearly all points up and down the river report flood conditions.

So rapidly did the river come up that many of the less-experienced rivermen were almost caught napping. The 24-hour jump in stage having been at the rate of half a foot an hour and continuing last night at the rate of more than an inch an hour.

Coalmen frantically worked all night to protect barges containing 10,000,000 bushels of coal, now in harbor here, the high winds and the rough water making their labors particularly difficult. Other interests along the river front were equally active. The railroads are still in normal condition in this city but the official prediction of at least 55 feet by to-day forecasts the abandonment of the Grand Central station, which is threatened by a 55-foot stage and made inaccessible for trains at 55 feet. In the lowlands second stories were sought by many while others abandoned their homes entirely for greater safety elsewhere.

Up-River Cities Perilous.
Reports from the up-river cities were much to the same effect. At Parkersburg the official prediction is for at least two feet above flood stage and already the flats have been abandoned. Similar reports come from Portsmouth, Ironton, Gallipolis, and other places. The Muskingum, Scioto, Kanawha, Big Sandy, Big and Little Miami and Licking rivers are away above flood stage and have been pouring their floods into the already swollen Ohio, carrying away logs, flat boats and whatever happened to be loose along the river banks. Wrecked coal barges passed here yesterday, having been carried down from some points above. Thousands of logs, torn from their moorings on the Licking river, almost created a panic when they swept into the Ohio at this point, coal and other barges narrowly escaping serious damage as the swift current battered them with the heavy logs.

Great Loss to Transportation.
The greatest loss will be in the interference with transportation, delay to the mails and compulsory abandonment of all business along the river front, that depends upon the river for its successful transaction. Reaction lines will also suffer, especially those running along the river below and above the city.

Drums from the Congo.
The Conservatoire exhibition of musical instruments contains some interesting specimens of drums of uncivilized people. A new specimen has just been presented by M. V. C. Michell, director of the museum, which is considered unique. It is three feet long, of wood, in which is carved a figure seated on an elephant. It is said to come from the Congo.—From a Brussels Letter to the New York Herald's Paris Edition.

RUSSIA IS IN FEAR OF WAR

Believes Austria and Servia Will Fight Soon.

ALARM IS FELT IN FRANCE

Great Britain's Officials and Germany Are More Optimistic Over the Situation in the Balkans, But See Danger.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 25.—In diplomatic circles here the opinion is expressed that Austria and Servia will be at war within a fortnight unless some solution to their quarrel is found at once.

Foreign office officials state that Russia is not disposed to consider an invasion of Servia alone as a casus belli, but there is fear that the government's hand may be forced under such circumstances by popular feeling. The beginning of hostilities would throw thousands of Russian volunteers into the Servian ranks.

The duma leaders, who visited the foreign office yesterday, expressed themselves as convinced that war is inevitable. Information received from Kiev indicates that no military measures have yet been undertaken on the southwestern frontier, but all applications of officers for leave of absence have been refused and the Kiev department is ready for instant mobilization.

The Novoye Vremya publishes a spirited reply to what it describes as Austrian and German "threats." "Uneasiness in France."

Paris, Feb. 25.—The attitude assumed by Austria-Hungary and Russia in the difficulty between the former power and Servia is creating considerable uneasiness here. France is anxious to play the role of pacifier, but Germany having declined the French, British and Italian overtures for intervention at Vienna and suggested instead intervention at Belgrade, the French government has decided, in view of the attitude of Russia, to initiate no new action except with the complete approval of Russia and Great Britain.

England Not Alarmed.
London, Feb. 25.—The British government is not so apprehensive regarding the situation in the Balkans as are some of the other governments of Europe, judging from the indications in dispatches received here from various continental capitals. The foreign office, of course, recognizes that an undue prolongation of the tension between Austria-Hungary and Servia is dangerous, but it is hopeful of an early relaxation in the situation. Germany has not declined to participate in a joint action, and negotiations still are going on with the view of a profusion of good offices.

Germany Has No Fear.
Berlin, Feb. 25.—There is no reason to believe that an outbreak of war between Austria and Servia is imminent, according to the view held in the most authoritative semi-official circles. The alarmist reports are regarded as being much exaggerated. It is admitted, however, that the situation is not clear and will remain clouded until those powers which, like France, are striving to maintain peace, make their voices heard at St. Petersburg and induce Russia to notify Belgrade that in the event of war Servia cannot rely upon either direct or indirect Russian support.

NO WIVES FOR DRUNKARDS.
Amendment to Illinois Marriage Laws Urged in Legislative Bill.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 25.—Young men who frequent saloons will not be permitted to enter into matrimonial relations in Illinois if a bill introduced in the house yesterday is enacted into law, and it probably will pass.

The bill was introduced by Representative Groves, and amends the marriage laws of the state by declaring an "habitual drunkard" to be a person who becomes intoxicated twice in a year. The bill provides also that applicants for marriage licenses shall make affidavit that they have not been intoxicated twice in the preceding year.

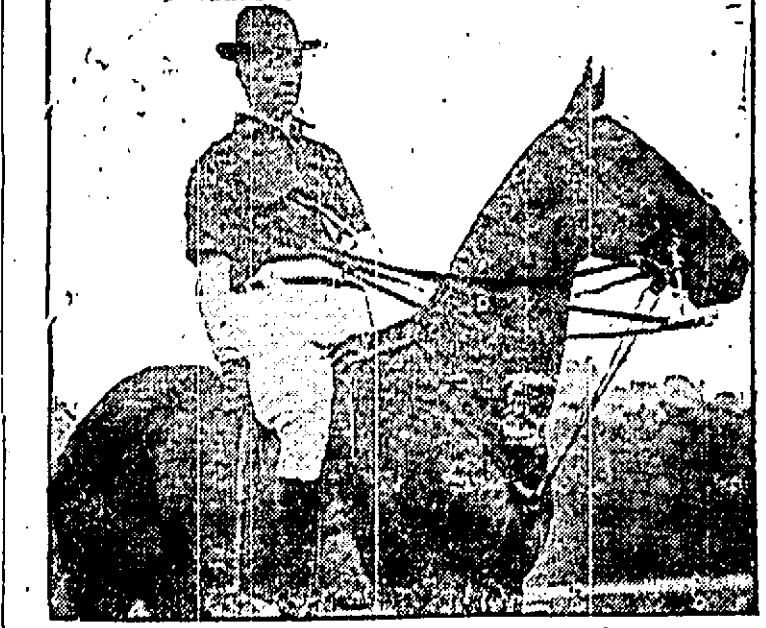

Madison, Wis., Feb. 25.—Wisconsin may adopt the Puritanic custom of branding the drunkard. It will not be by the burning of the letter "D" on the forehead, as was the custom during the early history of Massachusetts, but by compelling the "posted" man to wear a red button at least two inches in diameter on his coat lapel. Senator Lehr introduced a bill yesterday that provides for the posting of any man who is wearing his effects by the use of intoxicating liquors and compelling the wearing of a red button.

The Milwaukee is not badly damaged.

FUTURE PROSPECTS BRIGHT

General Opinion in That With Tar's Inauguration, Business Will Pick Up.

With a few exceptions, manufacturing conditions in Janesville present the same aspect as the weather, a sort of dull, dark gray, but relieved by the hope that the sun may shine soon. The ray of sunshine in this particular case is the hope that business will improve after the inauguration of the new president. Most of the factories are running with their regular force, but there is no heavy order book and are not experiencing the rush of business common several years ago.

Among those that are busy, but not rushed, is the Rock River Cotton Company. This factory is employing a force of a hundred hands, but officers of the company state that while business is fifty per cent better than at this time last year, it is not up to expectations. Their output, which contains no novelties, but is confined solely to their regular articles of manufacture, is distributed through the company's agents from as far as Philadelphia, to California. Some orders are also made for jobbers.

Another concern, which is about little affected by general depressing conditions, is the Hargest Milling Company.
Employing the usual amount of business, it is doing a steady trade in flour. In hard times, they must cut and consequently the mill must be run. Even in their best business, it is quiet and there are no hurry orders.
The company receives about 500 bushels of barley a week from the farmers, but little trade is brought in that grade is about cleaned up in this part of the country.

Another company to whom the business outlook looks exceedingly gray, is fact reflecting exactly the general tone of the recent weather, are the manufacturers of cigar boxes and cigarette boxes, Thoroughgood & Company. They state that the outlook for their trade has not been so good for twenty-three years. They are using a fair force of employees, but are getting no large orders. A change for the better is looked for, however, and in the meantime they are getting a large stock on hand to forestall any boom.

The J. P. Cullen Co., manufacturers of interior woodwork, are doing their usual amount of work, but have no need of extra hands, generally employed in busy seasons. Except for the holidays, the concern has not lost a day for more than a year. At present the contract for the interior woodwork of the new Koshuba postoffice is keeping them busy.

Normal or quiet, either word could be used to characterize the operations of the Rock River Machine Company.
They are receiving no large orders, are doing a fair amount of business, and employing the regular number of men. This also can be said of the New Day Manufacturing company.

The one concern which seems to have caught the first gleam of the expected prosperous season is the Janesville Silt & Overall Company.
The company is advertising for girls and putting them to work immediately. The demand for their kind of goods is heavy, and the officers have faith that the demand for the articles they manufacture will increase steadily.

LENT NO SEASON
OF MELANCHOLY

But a Time for Seeking That Exaltation Which Only the Spirit
Can Give—Rev. John
McKinney's Evening
Sermon.

Fourth sermon in the Lenten series, delivered by Rev. John McKinney tonight at the church, will be: "If thou therefore wilt make us free, thou must first be free thyself."
The purpose of the Lenten season, it seemed to him, was not to make people morose and melancholy, but to break the shackles of sin and set them free from those things which had been acting as restraints on their spiritual life.
This life, in most instances, might be said to have been too much overwhelmed with symbols and the worldly with duties which are not rather to hide him from than to point him to approach and touch the heart of the soul, and the ministry, in that they had not served to really bring him into our lives.

The real purpose of Lent and all religion was the building up of the spiritual character in men. That was the Lord's viewpoint and the final aim of the sacraments. Quarrels over the minutiae of religion, the end and goal of religion, had never served any real purpose, except to obscure this aim.

Self-denial and self-sacrifice, then,
were the purposes of the Lenten season, and were useless unless they served to touch the pilgrim heart and bring him back to the altar, which only the spiritual life can give.

WILL ANSWER ROOSEVELT.
Senator Hemenway to Reply to Letter from the President.

Washington, Feb. 25.—President Roosevelt is to receive one more addressing of the Birch rod by the senatorial committee of the senate. It has all been framed up that a score-ing reply will be made to the letter written Senator Hale, placing Mr.
Hemenway in the Annapolis club, and incidentally impugning the veracity of all senators who are members of the appropriation committee.

It is intended to answer all the statements made by the president in his letter.

The president declared that those made by Mr. Hemenway were "inaccurate and misleading in various important respects."

Senator Hemenway is charged with the duty of drawing up the reply to the president's letter. He has permission to go as far as he likes.
He will exert himself to demonstrate that the president himself is the individual who is inaccurate and possibly misleading.

The reply is scheduled for not later than next Monday. It is proposed to have this supplemental report come at such a time as will not afford the president an opportunity to get in the last word.

TRADE IS LIGHT
THROUGHOUT CITY

TOBACCO MEN REPORT BUT LIT-TLE DOING AT PRESENT.

THE SEASON TO BE SHORT

Effects of Panic Still, But in the Line of the Luxuries Such as Tobacco.

Reports from the different tobacco dealers indicate a very quiet week in the local trade. With a few exceptions, the new crop is selling slowly, while sales of old leaf are very light.
But one sale of any great importance is reported, that of 329 cases of 1908 stock, by G. H. Russell, Feb. 22. Scotch has shipped three days, during the preceding week, while T. E. Jones has sold about a hundred cases.

There seems to be a great range in the activities shown by the different firms. Some, notably F. S. Haines and the Green Tobacco Company, are doing a great deal more sizing and packing than the rest. The former is working at the full capacity of three warehouses, employing about a hundred hands, while the latter has about ninety. Among others who are running, but with reduced forces, are Fisher & Fisher with thirty-five employees, Sanford & Severell with seventy and John Spelman with twenty.
Others who are doing no sizing or packing are Messrs. McMillan & McKinnery, Fisher Bros., H. E.
Jones, and Messrs. Grady. Most of the others are literally "out" enough men to attend to the shipping.

It seems to be the general opinion of the dealers that the volume of trade during the present month will be lower than at the same time last year. This is reported to be the case in the cigar business also. In spite of the fact that some factories are reporting a much greater output for February, this greater production will be more than counterbalanced by a corresponding depression among other firms. What is applied to the cigar manufacturers can also be said of the leaf dealers. Some firms report a greater output than at the same time last year, while others say that the trade is slower than it has been for many years. It is the general verdict that there is little demand for old leaf, while the warehousemen are compelled to buy new stock for packing purposes, while there is nothing coming in from the stock already on hand.

It is the general belief that conditions will become more stable during the progress of the year, and that by next fall the demand will again be normal. It can easily be seen that the effects of last year's panic have not yet worn off, and until after the inauguration, when confidence is again restored, it can not be expected that the trade will experience steady progress.

That the present season will be short is also generally admitted. The dicate a very quiet week in the local

RAISE OF PRESIDENT*House Defies Senate and Makes Pay $75,000—Gives Vice-Pres-dent $12,000.
Washington, Feb. 25.—In open defiance of the senate the house yesterday made a terrific and successful onslaught upon the upper branch's amendments to the legislative appropriation bill increasing the salaries of the president, vice-president, speaker of the house and federal judges. The amendment creating an under secretary of the state also was amended. All increases, except that of the president were swept from the bill, and after a spirited debate the president's salary was fixed at $75,000, but only after his allowance of $25,000 for traveling expenses had been cut off.

By a vote of 141 to 108 the house refused to concur in the senate's action fixing the president's salary at $100,000. Before the announcement was made Speaker Cannon directed that his name be recorded in the affirmative. The salary of the vice-president then was set back to $12,000.

It was a regular field-day in the lower body, where oratory and confusion vied with each other for honors. Not during the present congress has the speaker been compelled to wield his gavel with such force to bring about order. Of parliamentary tangles there were many, but the veteran presiding officer emerged from them all with his decisions unimpeded.

The battle waged for more than six hours, at the end of which the bill was sent to conference. So much time was consumed in "consideration of the conference report on that measure that a night session was made imperative in order that further discussion of the sundry civil appropriation bill, which had dragged along for several days, might be had.

ATTACKS THE CANAL REPORT
Colombian Engineer, Says Taft's Ex-ports Could Learn in Chicago.
New Haven, Conn., Feb. 25.—Earnest advocates of the Gatun dam to confine the waters of the Chagres river at Panama were found among the members of the American Institute of Mining Engineers during their discussion of "The Panama Canal" yesterday, upon resuming the sessions of the ninety-sixth meeting.
The opposition to the lock type was led by Henry G. Granger of Chattanooga, Colombia, who made a sharp attack upon the report made a few days ago by the engineers who went to Panama with Judge Taft to look over the work. He summed up his attitude in these words:

"If the engineers had to go it is unfortunate that their nominator did not pass through the office of the Chicago drainage canal and go to the camps of contractors who had to use their brains to save money by new methods and devices. It is also to be regretted that engineers were chosen who had been found guilty of seeing a point and generating a gush of an idea which they had fostered into successful development."

The lock canal plan was bitterly assailed in a paper by Gustav H. Schwab, while just as fervently were the advantages of a sea-level canal at Panama advocated by the author. Mr. Schwab was not present at the meeting, but the paper was read by Prof. Raymond of the Institute. He said, in part:

BABY IN A LAWSUIT*Mother's Negligence Bars Recovery of $20,000 Damages from the Santa Fe.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The question of whether a railroad company is responsible for damages done to an infant child in an accident on its road when they were due to the negligence of the child's mother was involved in the case of Samuel Calhoun vs. the Atchafalaya, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company, which was decided Wednesday by the supreme court of the United States against the claimant.

In August, 1904, Mrs. Anna Calhoun, mother of Samuel, then 18 months old, arriving at Edmond, Okla., handed the child to a boy on the platform whom she believed to be an employee of the company. Before she could alight the train started. The boy ran to return the baby to the mother and fell over a truck, throwing the child under the moving train, which cut off one of the child's feet.

The territorial court at Edmond awarded $25,000 damages to the child, and the Oklahoma supreme court approved the verdict, remarking that even if the mother had been negligent the child was not responsible. The opinion was by Justice Moody and reversed the territorial court. The vital question involved was whether the railroad company had been negligent in leaving the truck where it was. Justice Moody found that the truck stood at a place where passengers would not be expected to get on or off trains.
The cases against the Chicago & Alton, the Illinois Central and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Companies, involving the right of the interstate commerce commission to regulate the distribution of coal-carrying cars, which are now pending in the supreme court, were consolidated and their hearing postponed and set for October 12 next.$50,000 GEM THEFT AT BALL.*Miss Jennie Crocker Robbed of Pearl

THE LAST VOYAGE OF THE DONNA
ISABEL

BY RANDALL PARRISH

ILLUSTRATIONS BY DEARBORN MEIVILL

I drew a card from my pocket across which had been written the cognomen I had assumed at the hotel.

"You possess it now," I said somewhat tartly. "Besides, senior, that happens to be my dinner coming yonder, and I prefer eating it undisturbed. You either go down those stairs quietly at once, or I'll kick you down."

I was obliged to smile while watching him back away. Beyond question the fellow was an ardent coward and, being so, I followed him, watching him closely while he descended, cursing fiercely to himself at every step until he finally vanished into the blackness below. The chances were strong that I should hear from him later, but in the meantime my interest veered to the excellent dinner being served. The lieutenant would have his turn, and, perchance, bring me a swift release from all my troubles on the morrow.

The English party still remained at their table, lingering over the dessert, but I noticed that conversation had lapsed, and precious little eating was being done. Evidently only the requirements of good form held them to their places, the elderly gentleman especially, denoting his nervousness by continual side-glances about the long room.

I overheard him mutter something indistinctly regarding having left his pistol upstairs, and it was plainly apparent he felt thoroughly ashamed of his late passiveness under insult. Madame was flushed and uneasy, angry still over the episode, and greatly inclined to sputter now that all real danger had passed; but the younger woman merely toyed with her spoon in silence, her eyes downcast, her cheeks devoid of their previous color. She made a fair picture, the brilliant light overhead flooding her dark hair, and it was not in young human nature to refrain from gazing at her through the invitingly open window. Finally they all pushed back their chairs to retire, and, as she glanced up while rising to her feet, our eyes met fairly, and a warm wave of color swept across the uplifted, sensitive face. The next instant, yielding apparently to some sudden impulse of gratitude, she stepped through the open window, and stood beside me with extended hand.

"Senior," she said, speaking a broken Spanish very prettily, "it was extremely kind of you to assist in removing that horrible man, and I cannot leave without some expression of my gratitude."

I was upon my feet instantly, bowing before her as to a queen, yet feeling a strange embarrassment.

"That incident was nothing, senior," I insisted, yet venturing to look directly into the depths of those dark eyes, so intensely studying my face under the dim light of the lanterns. "I did no more than any man would consider a privilege. I realized you had no younger protector at hand."

She glanced around toward the others of her party, now also upon their feet, and gazing out at us in undisturbed amazement.

"No," she explained, as though in unwilling apology; "he has passed the age where he can safely measure strength with ruffians. It is not lack of courage, senior, but of bodily vigor."

"A time of life which must come to all of us," I returned, hastily, "and prudence is not necessarily disgrace. Yet believe me, seniorita, I already feel amply repaid for my little part in this comedy of errors by your smile of recognition and words of thanks. You are English?"

Her eyes fell slightly, the long lashes clearly outlined against the white blouse.

"Yes, senior," she replied, softly, "we are English travelers for pleasure. Our yacht lies anchored in the harbor below."

I imagined she was tempted to inquire who I might be, but, while she stood hesitating, uncertain of the propriety of so personal a question, the spare, stiff figure of the Englishman appeared suddenly in the open casement. For a moment of silence his

Strong Healthy Women

If a woman is strong and healthy in a womanly way, motherhood means to her but little suffering. The trouble lies in the fact that the many women suffer from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organism and are unfitted for motherhood. This can be remedied.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Cures the weaknesses and disorders of women. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs concerned in motherhood, making them healthy, strong, vigorous, virile and elastic.

"Favorite Prescription" banishes the indispositions of the period of expectancy and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It quickens and vitalizes the feminine organs, and insures a healthy and robust baby. Thousands of women have testified to its marvelous merits.

It makes Weak Women Strong. It makes Sick Women Well.

Honest druggists do not offer substitutes, and urge them upon you as "just as good." Accept no secret nostrum in place of this non-secret remedy. It contains not a drop of alcohol and not a grain of habit-forming or injurious drug. It is a pure glyceric extract of healing, native American roots.
